The Ontario Band Association (OBA) strives to conduct its business in conformity with the highest ethical and moral standards, thereby ensuring that its members and the greater band community in Ontario and Canada has complete confidence in the integrity of the OBA. PART 3

1. Where it is questionable as to whether a conflict of interest exists, it is incumbent upon the individual to consult with their supervising director, in the case of a volunteer or employee; or the Board of Directors, in the case of a member of the Board; or seek legal advice and disclose the particulars.
2. A conflict of interest may present itself in one of three forms:

 - b. a potential conflict of interests: where a result could lead to a conflict of interest arising; and,
 - c. a perceived conflict of interest: where an actual or potential conflict of interest may not exist, but an outside perspective into the surrounding circumstances leads or could lead to a perception that a conflict of interest exists.

3. A conflict of interest arises where the private or personal interests of an individual are sufficient to influence or appear to influence the objective exercise of their duties. This would include:
 - a. where the private or personal interests of an individual conflict with the interests of the OBA; or
 - b. where the individual has a financial interest in a third party that is doing or is seeking to do business with the OBA.
4. A conflict of interest arises where an individual has or appears to have an opportunity to use their authority, knowledge, or influence derived from their position to improperly benefit the individual or another person. This would include:
 - a. participating in the hiring, appointment or promotion of a family member, including a spouse, parent, in-law, sibling, child or stepchild;
 - b. having personal financial dealings with an individual or company whose business with the OBA involves the individual's sphere of responsibilities; and,
 - c. participating in the management of a company which is a supplier of materials or services to the OBA.
5. A conflict of interest arises if gifts, gratuities or favours of any kind are exchanged between an individual and any individual or company whose relationship with the OBA involves the individual's sphere of responsibilities.
 - a. cash payments in any amount must not be accepted or given as a gift or favour under any circumstances.
 - b. this policy does not apply to incidental gifts and other benefits that are below a value of thirty dollars ($30) and that are received as a result of general business practices.
6. A conflict of interest arises if an individual accepts outside employment or engages in outside activities which may interfere with the efficient performance of the individual's duties.

 - b. impose disciplinary action, including termination or removal. Any decision for termination or removal must be commensurate with the circumstances surrounding the conflict of interest; or
